Sex, Drugs, Rock & Roll is written and originally performed by Eric Bogosian and directed by his wife, Jo Bonney. It was first performed on February 8, 1990 at the Orpheum Theatre in New York City. In this play, Bogosian portrays eleven male characters in contexts reminiscent of the late 1980s.

According to legend the term Rock 'n' roll was invented by Alan Fried, a DJ from New York. But Fried has done much more than naming a phenomenon and educating millions of people. He has also managed to become a center of a scandal, to derail his life with alcoholism and die young. He himself was reincarnation of Rock and Roll.
